By Children In Underserved Communities Around The Globe

WARREN, N.J., December 15, 2009 ... Warren Baseball Softball, Inc. (WBSI) today announced that the Association, on behalf of its more than 1,500 participating families, has donated a truckload of used equipment to aspiring youth baseball and softball players around the world.

In late November, a group of players from the WBSI program volunteered their time to gather, organize and box up thousands of pieces of equipment for the donation that was made on Friday, December 11 to Pitch-In For Baseball, a non-profit organization that provides equipment to youth baseball/softball organizations around the world. The equipment donated by WBSI included baseball/softball gloves, batting helmets, bats and balls, catcher's gear, and much more, which will help children in impoverished communities learn the game and enjoy America's pastime.

"On behalf of the Board of Trustees of WBSI, along with the families who participate in our baseball and softball programs, I am very proud that our Association can donate an entire truckload of equipment to children who love the game, but don't have the resources to learn and play," said Mike Colantuono of Warren Baseball Softball, Inc. "WBSI is privileged to have an abundance of equipment that can be used by literally thousands of children and we can't think of a better way to spread the joy of baseball and softball then to align with Pitch-In For Baseball and send this equipment to communities all over the world."

"Children who have the passion, but not the equipment to play, will benefit greatly from the generous donation of equipment from Warren New Jersey. This equipment will be put to immediate great use," says David Rhode, Executive Director of Pitch-In For Baseball.

Pitch-In For Baseball is a non-profit organization that began in 2005 with the mission to help kids and make friends all over the world by sharing the great game of baseball. They collect and give youth baseball equipment and other assistance to kids in underserved communities around the globe. The organization believes that baseball is a great way for kids to participate in a fun and healthy activity while learning life lessons like teamwork and sportsmanship.
